ABSTRACT

This research attempts to determine if we can predict the day of marriage using the transiting eclipses and the new moon to the natal chart for the date they were married.

INTRODUCTION

I wanted to find out if the eclipses or the new moon were in the seventh or in the first house of the natal chart on the date that they got married. Also, I researched if the eclipses and the new moon were making aspects to the rulers of the seventh, ruler of the ascendant, or planets in the seventh or in the first house. I used the eclipses and the new moon prior to the day that they were married. I calculated the transiting eclipse and new moon both backward and forward. In other words, the eclipse is exactly what you would pull out of the ephemeris. The backward eclipse calculated this way. We calculate how many days old you are. In other word we find how many days have expired from the day you were born to the day that you were married. Then we take this amount of days and subtracted from your birthday and calculate the planetary position for that day. So in other words, the backward transit is a day before you were born. I am 78+ years old so if I calculate the backward transit fourth today it would be a day 78+ years before I was born.

METHODOLOGY

We collected 597 marriages with exact birth times for the males and females. Then we researched both the male and female charts for a total of 1,194 charts . We used the Astro Investigator research software designed and written by AIR Software to do our research. (www.alphee.com).

With the Astro Investigator software you can set up all kinds of models that consist of different astrological criteria depending on what you're trying to research. You can set up hundreds of them using all kinds of different astrological techniques and systems. I used the following astrological criteria in my research. I used a 5° orb for all the aspect.

1. One of the eclipses or the new moon conjuncts, sextiles, or trines planets in the seventh house.
2. One of the eclipses or the new moon conjuncts, sextiles, or trines planets in the first house
3. One of the eclipses or the new moon conjuncts, sextiles, or trines the seventh house cusp.
4. One of the eclipses or the new moon conjuncts, sextiles, or trines the first house cusp

5. One of the eclipses or the new moon conjuncts, sextiles, or trines the ruler of the ascendant.
6. One of the eclipses or the new moon conjuncts, sextiles, or trines the ruler of the descendent.

RESULTS

I was able to predict date of marriage using these six criteria with a probability of 93%. So I was able to predict marriage for 1110 charts out of 1194 marriages.

CONCLUSION

I proved that the eclipses and the new moon are very important in predicting the day of marriage. In many cases I found that both the regular eclipses and new moons and the backward eclipses and new moons were both very active in the same charts on the day of marriage. In some cases, three of them were very active in this chart.
